If you don't know what a survey is; a survey is a multitude of questions that need to be answered to gather information! Surveys can be a critical component in gathering data. 1. SurveyJunkie

Surveyjunkie is one of the biggest and in my opinion, best survey websites around! Signing up is absolutely free and you can get started on doing surveys right away! Surveyjunkie works by having a multitude of different surveys for different categories. Depending on the length or category, the survey is worth more points!

Each point is worth approximately one cent and takes 5 – 20 minutes to complete! Most surveys are worth 100 – 300 points. However, there are instances where surveys have been valued up to 1000 points ($10)! On average, you will be making $1 – $3 per survey! Therefore, on your 30-minute lunch break, you can potentially make up to $10. Not too bad if you ask me! However, once you have enough points you can redeem it through Paypal.

2. Swagbucks

Swagbucks is another great survey website. This site also works through a point system. However, you can only redeem the points through gift card! Although this is the case, they do still have Paypal gifts cards which allows you to deposit your points into your account! Signing up with them is 100% free and you will have access to thousands of paid surveys at your fingertips!

Some of you may be wondering how all of this is possible. Many companies need data gathered for their research but have realized that the best way to do this is through surveys! However, not everyone wants to do surveys because they can be tedious! They solved this problem by adding an incentive! Creating an incentive makes the concept of survey taking a win-win scenario!

3. MyPoints

The Budget Diet explained it best when they said with MyPoints "You earn points by shopping online, purchasing local deals (through Groupon or Living Social), reading email, taking surveys, watching videos, finding deals, discovering new content, searching the internet, printing coupons, playing games and referring friends."

MyPoints caters to those who have a passion for online shopping! It works relatively the same where you earn points which can be exchanged for gift cards. However, these points can be accumulated through ways other than taking surveys!

Summary

Taking surveys can be extremely lucrative. If you don't like to take surveys, Surveyjunkie and Swagbucks are amazing options. If you're an online shopper, MyPoints may be your best option. You'll be earning points of shopping that you would be doing regardless! All of them
